

Fly to the fair in Colombia and reunite with the flock!

South American Bird Fair, the most important of its kind in the whole American continent happens every year in a different country. Due to the pandemic, the 10th annual reunion that was programmed to happen in Peru was postponed and because of this the Andean Condor traveler is coming back to Colombia for such an event. After 20 months of virtual fairs and the lack of personal contact between birders or field trips, we are glad to announce that this year reunion will be held face-to-face, and it is counting on the presence of birdwatchers from many countries.
